The guerillas approached to within Iwenty yards of Captain Wilson, who wordered them to halt. They immediately drew their revolvers and commenced firing on Wilson, when he and his men, who were armed with Henry ritles, returned the fire. The two Lieutenants were killed and Stone was wounded, but made his escape. None of Wilson's party were injured. IN CAMP, ROUSSEAU'S DIVISION, NASHVILLE, TUNN., Dec. 14, 1862. MESSUES. Entrois: Encamped again upor the old stamping ground, receiving another outfit for the campaign, I attempt to write you this, my first letter, which you will excuse for ne short introductory. Doctors' letters should e, as their prescriptions, short and sweet. There are but few of the old Joe Holt boy: about Nashville, Tenn. Since my arrival here I have seen none but those of Capt. Stone I have seen none but those of Capt. Stone's battery. The Legion, I understand, is out in the advance, exchanging a few shots now and then with the rebels, and teaching the enemy that bullets are now considered one of the most dangerous preparations of lend.

My principal object in addressing you this communication is to let the people know why a Surgeon caunot furnish a wounded or sick man with necessary things. When the sound of distant artillery was heard by our away, as it was marching to Savannah, an order came for all transportation to be left behind, including hospital wagons, and for the troops to push on as last as possible, the road to be cleared of all wagons, except umbulances. Surgeons harriedly gathered their instruments, put what articles they could into hospital knapsacks, and, with their respective commands, went upon the field. Only thus equipped, where men were wounded in such nambers, the Surgeon's supplies soon gave out, and what was he to do? Of course, as his hogetist wagon, was for helind, and a river all, and what was no to do? Of collist, and a river his hospital wagon was for behind, and a river between him and it, he couldn't expect any re-ief in that way. No, all he could do would be to vield the knife and trust to Providence for the

He was killed at the head of his regiment, at Fredericksburg, on Saturday afternoon, while gallantly leading it in battle. The N. Y. Evening Post says Col. against the Emperor's life. Inasmuch as the journels are not allowed to give a whisper of information or conjecture upon the matter, the subject is discussed only by word of mouth; and inasmuch as the walls have ears the discussion is carried on in the most grimly secret manner. The effect of all this obscurity is to make every object, however slight, assume gigantic proportions. The fact that the inauguration of a new Boulevard was very suddenly postponed has, for instance, given birth to narratives of all sorts of plots, the full and explicit details of which are circulated as absolute truths. One thing is certain, says every one in Puris, and that is that the secret police are seized with an activity startling even for them, and that spies swarm everywhere, making it dangerous for any prominent person to include in any remarks upon topics more specific than the weather and the state of the streets.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 19, 1862. We must deeline to publish the lette of our correspondent "ROLLA." We will tell him why, when he tells us who he is. We ask the attention of the authorities to the letter of "A Subscriber," who writes from Boyle county. His case is a very hard one, but not harder than the cases of hundreds of other loval men in Kentucky. Immense injury to the private property of loyal men in this State has been done by the troops, and, unless reparation be made by the Government, the condition and fate of the victims will b indeed deplorable. Why are not commission ers appointed at Washington to assess the dam ages done to patriotic men, so that compensa ion may be made and families saved from starvation and the heads of families enabled to pay their taxes? Unless this be done, wil not a deep and pervading conviction be created that the Government is cruelly unjust And cannot the Government better afford to have the drain upon its already heavily taxed resources increased than to be deemed unjus and oppressive by its patriotic supporters?

way to prosecute the war effectively. We copy from the Lexington Observer a correspondence between the committee of a this. On the contrary, he seouts the pretenpublic meeting of the citizens of that place and Gen. Granger, who is in command there. The subject of the correspondence is the resto ration of slaves belonging to Union citizen and detained, in defiance of the claims of their owners, in some of the regiments under Gen. Granger's command. The matter is one of great importance to the people of Kentucky, and we are glad that our Lexington neighbors have taken steps to bring about some full and distinct understanding in regard

We are well aware of the thousand giant

Gen. Granger, as appears by his letter, takes the right view of the matter but has referred it to his superior officer, Gen. Wright, whose decision in relation to it will, we presume, be soon made known. The Editor of the Observer fears some adverse and controlling influence at Washington, but we do not believe that his lears will be realized. Gov. Robinson and Gen. Finnell are now at Washington, and we presume that the purpose of their visit is to ascertain directly from the highest source what policy tho Union men of Kentucky are to expect concerning their slave property while the Union troops are upon our

We are entirely confident that the Government, although it has sometimes disappointed our just expectations, will in this case set its face against the outrages practised by the men

For It is painful, it is absolutely sickening, to read of the horrible slaughter of our troops at Predericksburg. The carnage was truly frightful. Every one must be shocked at the contemplation of it. And then comes the revoltng reflection that all this awful waste of blood was made in a literally bopeless undertaking. or rational hope that the Army of the Potomae, half composed of raw troops, could vanquish a veteran army equal if not superior to itself in numbers, and fighting from innumer able rifle-pits and behind the most powerful fortifications that industry, guided by science ould construct. We have stockades along the line of the Louisville and Nashville rai road, and it is considered that forty or fifty good men in one of them can successfully resist the assault of hundreds. Washington City is fortified, and the military authorities there are entirely confident that fifteen or wenty thousand men can hold it against any attack of two hundred thousand. Such being he tremendous odds created by fortifications, we cannot but conclude that there was recklessness, desperation, madness, in the many forlorn rushes upon the rebel works at Fredvricksburg.

Where the responsibility for the vast blun der belongs is a question that must be settled hereafter. Some one ought to go out of either a military or a civil office for it. Perhaps several ought. And yet hundreds of thousands of the people and their newspaper or gans should no doubt share the blame with the nuthorities. The fierce chamors for the removal of McClellan and Buell for being prudent and firm, and the loud clamors that the nr my of the Potonic under its new chief should at every hazard dash precipitately forward to the capture of Richmond-we say these clam ors, backed as they seemed to be by the Powers at Washington, appeared to leave no chance to the chivalric Burnside but either to attempt nt once the storming of everything before him or to decline serving in the position assigned to him by his Government. He made his choice. We do not say that he made it wisely His army fought with a bravery not surpassed in any battle of Alexander, or Casar, or Frederic, or Marlborough, or Napoleon; the terrible daring of his troops in their various charges was not excelled by the immortal charge of the six hundred at Balaklava; but they might as well have dashed themselves unarmed and naked against a line of rocks. Confusion to those who toreed the appalling and bootless sacrifice of blood at Fredericks burg, but all honor and glory to the gallant men who perished and their gallant comrades who survived. The army of the l'otomac. though not victorious in a fight that might as well have been a fight against destiny itself, is and may well be proud, even while griev ng over its fearful losses, of its chivalric achievements. Its dead have been buried in the earth, and its wounded are in their country's hospitals, yet still it stauds up, a mighty ost, unbroken in spirit, increased in physical strength, and ready and panting to be led wherever dangers are to be dared and good blows given for the salvation of the republic. We are sure there is as little thought of winter-quarters in that magnificent host now as Pashilos, of the Louisville Johnmi, is repainly "pracked on the saidest of slavery. The pressure or "nigger on the brain" is log severe even for his keen wit. He is a strong illustration of the saying that "Great wit to madness nearly is allied." In spite of the tremendous linancial straits to which newspapers mendous linancial straits to which newspapers are driven to keep alive, he offers to do for shaveholders among his subscribers what he would never think of doing for the owners of any other kind of property. He will advertise their runaway negroes free of charge! Who can blame the "chivalry" for despising all Yankees, when so eminent a "loyat' man as Grorge D. Prentice, a native of Uonnecticut, is willing to play the bloodhound after panting lugitives, and ask no pay for such dirty business?—Detroit Tribane.

The Tribune doesn't state the truth. We rave not said that we would "advertise runaway negroes free of charge." What we said was, that, if the negroes of any of our subseri bers had been taken off by the troops passin through this State, we would, upon being furnished with the necessary information, tr to get the property restored, and this we pro pose to do, not by advertising, but by private y asking the proper military authorities to ight the wrong that has been done.

We do not crave the good opinion of any Editor or man, who censures us for our willngness to do our loyal subscribers the favor requesting the restoration of the propert tolen from them by thieves in uniform. his is "playing the bloodhound," we have n objection to being considered a whole pack of bloodhounds. The Tribune has no word of disapprobation for the rascally thieves and robbers; all its invective is for as who would have their villainy undone. Let the officer and soldiers who come here learn that their husiness is to obey and not to violate the laws We would have no one disregard the legisla tion of Congress, however ill-advised it may be, but, the sooner the Federal troops under stand that their mission is to fight the rebels and not to rob and ruin I'nion men, the better for all concerne 1.

If the Detroit Editor desires that the Fed ral troops shall rob loyal Kentuckians of their negroes, perhaps he had better use his influence to get Congress to pass a law to author

It is thought that the President will no pprove the bill admitting Western Virginia no the Union as a State. The consent of th State of Virginia is necessary, according the Constitution.—Louisville Democrat. We trust the surmise alluded to by on eighbor will prove correct. It will undoubt edly, if the President gives fair play in the difficulties with which the Government has to ase to his own judgment and impulses. No only is the bill unconstitutional, but we di struggle in this fearful crisis, but surely it must know that letting its friends be ruined and not understand that the more candid of its apporters even pretend that it is constitu beggared where its armies go and leaving them without hope of restitution would be no tional. Certainly Mr. Thaddens Stevens, who is the Republican leader in the llouse, and one of the most zealous advocates of the bill, does not put forward any such pretension :

> sion. He said in his speech on the subject the other day: I say, then, that we may admit West Virginia as a new State, not by virtue of any rovision of the Constitution, but under our is in the circumstances in which we are blaced. I shall vote for this bill upon that heavy, and upon that alone; for I will not stultify myself by supposing that we have my warrant in the Constitution for this pro-

Into this or restoring the chiof is it was under the Constitution as it is, is one of the absurdities which I have heard repeated until I have become about sick of it. This Union can never be restored as it was. There are anny things which render such an event impossible. This Union shall never with my consent be restored under the Constitution as it is with slavery to be unterted by it. t is, with slavery to be protected by it.

How far this view ostensibly governs the action of Mr. Stevens's colleagues in relation to the bill, we are not able to say; but it is certain that no radical will reject the views and it is equally certain that the bill can be nstified logically on no other view. Surely nothing further need be said to set forth the enormity of the measure. But it is now use less to argue the question. We for the presen can only trust that the rumor that the President will veto the bill is true.

Gen. Dumont has ably refuted the charge of the Louisville Journal against him, through the columns of that paper. He shows that he was far away from the troops who surrendered ut Hartsville; that they had for some time neen detached from the main body of his command, and also shows that the behavior of his soldiers in Kentucky was not disordery, ns had been asserted in the Kentucky pupers.—St. Louis Democrat.

The St. Louis paper should state things more correctly. We did not charge that Gen. Dumont was with the troops that surrendered Surely there was, surely there could be, no just at Hartsville. We thought it likely he was but we expressly stated that we didn't know doesn't show or attempt to show that the behavior of his soldiers in Kentucky was not disorderly. He admits that a great many disorderly deeds were committed by them, but claims that he did everything in his power to estrain them and was at last in a great meas ure successful. We have, since the appearance of his communication, received letters from the most respectable loyal men in Frankfort. Shelbyville, Lebanon, &c., setting forth that they were nearly or quite ruined by the atrocious depredations of his men, but we have omitted to publish them, for the spirit evinced

New York Times. The Times is right, and, on behalf of the public cause, we thank our contemporary for Tennessee, this salutary correction of the Tribune's paragraph, the obvious malignity of which ac ounts sufficiently for its mendacity. The loyal men of Kentucky do not expec ither justice or decency from the New York Tribune. They would as soon expect both from the vilest journal within the rebel lines.

The movement in behalf of the suffering operatives of Lancashire is causing our Canadian neighbors to rub their eyes. The Montreal Gazette, which has been one of the most persistent of our traducers, suddenly diseovers that "blood is thicker than water," and assures us that the princely subscriptions which we are making "will awaken an pelic in British hearts." The Toronto Globe makes the movement the occasion of reading the Cunthere was on the day of the first crossing of adian public a lecture on practical humanity and telling them that it "would be a shame for them to stand still when their neighbors The war, if continued, must be waged south of the lakes, amid all their trouble to their suffering brethren in England "wil do more than nnything else to restore the RESOLUTION.

Whereas, to avoid personal conflicts, writs were issued from the Fayette Circuit Conrt for the restoration of slaves of several Union citizens of Kentucky, detnined, without the consent and in defiance of the claims of their owners, in a few of the regiments under the command of Major General Granger in the neighborhood of Lexington, and the Sheriff has officially returned on most of those writs that their execution was prevented by armed force, und, whereas, there is reason to believe that a harge majority of the officers and soldiers et all such insubordination, and have, for oring to relieve the public mind from painful pprehension of its recognition as an authori-ative precedent, and yet the anxious people ave not been officially assured against it

Therefore, wishing now without longer sus ense, to know whether the military claims o pense, to know whether the military claums or intends to assert supremacy over the civit power in the Union State of Kentucky, and if so, why and to what extent, this assembly of citizens of Fayette appoints D. C. Wickliffe, Wilhiam Bryan, and John B. And also to request him to furnish them with the mames of the slaves detained, and the regimen in which each is detained, so as to enable the ommittee to report satisfactorily to this as embly's adjourned meeting on the 13th inst have already announced that a concert would be given to-morrow evening at Masonic Temple by the Misses Delloode. We have been favored with a copy of the programme selected for the occasion, which embraces many of the finest pieces of such composers as Bellini, Meyerbeer, Donizetti, and Gottschalk. The sisters Marie and Engenie De Roode will be assisted by Mr. Geo. Zoeller, and it is also announced that a young lady of the city, as to whose identity we are held in provoking doubt, will make her debut. MR. EDDY'S FAREWELL BENEFIT .- The en-

HEADQUARTERS FIRST IUVISION, ARMY OF THE P FRONTIER, OLD FORT WAINE, Hell Moysville, Ark., Nov. 28, 14-2. Brig. Gen. J. M. Schofield, Commanding Army

GENERAL: I have the honor to report that, in pursuance of your instructions of the 20th inst, I left camp at Pea Ridge at about 7 o'clock P. M. of that day with the second and third brigades of my command, consisting of the 2d, 6th, and 10th, and the 11th Kinsos, and the 1st and 3d Cherokee regiments, the 1st Kunsas and the 2d Indiana batteries and four mountain howitzers, leaving the first brigade, Gen. Shomon, lo protect my fand thank, and my supply train, maeting the command of Gen. Herron about midnight, which caused considerable delay.

I did not reach Bentonville until daylight of the 21st. At the latter place I halted until

5 o'clork P. M., at which hour my train, lett behind at Pea Ridge, came up. Having learned from my scouts, sent out during the day, that Cooper and Standwaite were nt o day, that Cooper and Standwaite were ht or near Maysville, with a force variously esti-mated at from 5,000 to 7,000 men, I deter-nined, if possible, to reach their camp and at-lack them by daybreak. The distance to march was thirty miles, and the road through a rough and wooded and hilly country. Three miles from Bentonville I directed my train to go into camp and tollow in the morning at daylight, and movel the column forward, Col. Cloud's brigade being in the ndvance. daylight, and movert the column for the column for the Eighth Census, prepared to the Eighth view of letting the column close up. The men were weary and exhansted, and no sooner were they halted than they dropped down in the brush by the wayside and were soon fast asleep, being in the rear of Colonel Cloud's brigade. After waiting half an hour at a halt I took a portion of my body guard, went ahead to learn the cause of the delay and ordered the command to be moved on, going myself with the havance guard. After proceeding on five miles hirther, an open prairie lay hefore us of some five miles in extent over which we had to pass to reach the rebet camp. At this point I went ahead of the advance guard, accompanied by Capt, Russell, of the 2d Kansas regiment, and two men, for the purpose of getting information. In this we succeeded ndmirably. Stopping at a large, fine house, at the edge of the prairie, and disnue nonse, at the edge of the prairie, and dis-guised as rebel soldiers, just escaped from the Federals, and wishing to get with Cooper's roammand, I readily ealisted the sympathies of the lady, whose husband was a soldier in the rebel camp. She informed me where their pickets stood, of the location of their camp, a little wooded stream, near the town of Maysville. From this point I sent companies B and I, of the Second Kansas, under the route, to enter the town in the rear of the enemy's pickets, for the purpose, if possible, of capturing them without alarming their

This, however, proved fruitless, from the fact, as I afterwards learned, that they heard us advancing across the prairie, and ran in-ularming the town as they went, from which all of the node inhabitants speedily decamped,

It was now near 5 o'clock, and my desire was to attack at daylight; but, while waiting to give Captain Hopkins time to get in the rear of their pickets, on going back to ascertain if the column was closed up, I learned, much to my surprise and disappointment, that during the last two or three hours' march, the only troops with up had been three companies. only froops with me had been three companies of the Kansas 2d, two of which had already the fown, and reached there at the same time with Captain Hopkins. There I learned that intelligence of an approach had gone ahead of us, and fearing that the enemy would retreat, I sent Col. Cloud, who had come up with me in the advance back, to move his brigade forward as rapidly as possible, while, with the three companies, I determined to push ahoad, affack the enemy, and endeavored to hold them until reinforcements could urrive. The battle was new won; the enemy began flying in disorder before our victorious troops. The 2d Indiana battery, Lient. The rebels, as I have since learned, did not halt in their retreat until they had reached Arkansas River at Fort Gibson, seventy miles The custalties in my command were one killed on the battle field, belonging to the Kansas Second, and nine wounded, and four complete; we also captured quite a large number of horses and a portion of their transportation and camp and garrison equipage.

Too much praise cannot be awarded to the gallant 2d, under the command of Lieut. Col. Bussett, which took a prominent part in the affair of the morning. Truly have they added new lustre to their laurels won at Wilson's Creek. With less than six hundred men, our numbers, and with guns without bayonets, charged the enemy's line and artillery, and drove them from the field.

To mention names where all both officers. To mention manes where all, both officers and men, did their duty so well and so nobly, may seem, I fear, invidions. Yet, I feel that I ought to say to Capt. Crawford, who commanded the battalion that made the charge apon and captured the rebel battery, great credit is due for his gallantry, and the names of Captains Ayres, Rassell, Hopkits, and

In closing the report it is justly due to acknowledge the efficient services rendered upon the field during the engagement by the following members of my division staff, viz:

Major V. P. Van Antwerp, Juspector-General, and Capt. Leman Scott, and Lieuts, J. Fin. Hill and M. J. Collier, Aides-de-Camp.

I have the honor to be, General, very respectfully, your obedient servant, Carnage of the Attack at Fredericksburg Arrival of Wounded at Washington!

Reported Fight in North Carolina!

NEW YORK, Dec. 18. The correspondent of the Tribune thus learnings the carnage of Saturday: It is not using too strong an expression say that in this battle we were butchered. The say that in this battle we were nutriered. The loss of the enemy in comparison with our own must be insignificant. More than half the division of General French were placed hors du combat before they had fired a shot, having combat before they had fired a shot, having orders to withhold their fire, charge bayonets, and rush upon the entrenchments. They anticipated no obstacle until they should meet in a hand to hand fight for the crest of the first range of hills, but how little they knew their five they had to deal with, lying close upon the soft earth behind a low stone wall, a half destroyed fence, which we had not taken into our calculations as obstacles.

The enemy watched the approach of French until every man in battle line came under the aim of the best sharpshooters in the rebel army, and in an instant, almost before the army, and in an instant, almost before the reported to him.

The entire loss of the corps of Couch, consisting of the divisions of Howard, French, and Hancock, and which the morning up to the battle, contained 40 regiments, old and new, amounting to at least 25,000, is now I think official reports will not vary from this estimate more than 500 over or under. The losses in Reynolds's corps of Franklin's grand division, which was at first supposed to be but 2,000, are to-night considered by some of Franklin's staff officers nearly 4,000. The following, based upon official reports as far as made out, and upon estimates of those who have the best facilities for judging, is as near correct as can be obtained up to the presentation. cut time.
